"Continuous Improvement Through Education"

EPA's new Lead Renovation, Repair and Painting (RRP) rule takes effect April 22, 2010. All contractors performing activities that disturb more than six square feet of surface area in homes, child care facilities, schools or other public and commercial facilities built before 1978 must be certified and must follow specific work practices to prevent lead contamination. At a minimum, supervisors must be certified and trained. The Rocky Mountain Center for Occupational and Environmental Health has been approved by the EPA to provide this training.

COURSE OVERVIEW

This course is intended to meet requirements established by EPA and other regulatory agencies for those involved in lead renovation, repair and painting activities. The audience includes renovators, remodelers, painters, maintenance personnel, and any other workers removing or modifying painted surfaces. The training will not only enhance credentials as private contractors but will also satisfy HUD requirements for interim controls training in Federally-assisted housing.

COURSE CONTENT

The Lead RRP eight hour class covers topics such as tenant notification, conducting lead paint surveys, proper work practices, clean-up, record-keeping and on-the-job training. There is also a 2 hour hands-on component. These exercises allow participants to practice the knowledge and skills that they have gained in the classroom in a realistic setting. The regulation is currently only applicable to pre-1978 housing that is occupied by children under the age of six or a pregnant woman but the EPA is considering making it applicable to any building constructed prior to 1978 which is when lead paint was banned.
