Applying for Jobs

When you are applying for jobs, use information that is relevant, and tailor your application, resume and cover letter to that specific job.

Create a Career Portfolio

Applications
Gather and organize your transcripts, certificates, employment history, awards, performance reviews, work samples and references for your career portfolio, which will include your master application, resume and cover letter. When you are applying for jobs, use information that is relevant and tailor your application, resume and cover letter to that specific job. Employers will often request these documents via email, so make sure you have electronic copies.

Your master application and master resume should contain your entire work history, experience, education information, skills and references with as much information as possible in each section. Be sure your master resume is targeted to a specific type of position or industry that you customize and tailor for each job you apply for.

Your master cover letter should be a template that you can customize to each specific job application. Keep your information updated and ready to use for each new employment opportunity.

Fill Out an Application
Most employers see your application before they see you. If you want to be interviewed, your application must make an outstanding impression. Employers may review 3 to 3,000 applications each month, so smudged, illegible or incomplete forms are quickly tossed aside. Employers often make assumptions about the quality of work you will do based on your application. You must be prepared to fill out an application when you go to pick up the form because some managers and companies require that it be filled out on the spot. Managers don't like it when applicants forget to bring a pen or ask to borrow a computer or phone to look up names, addresses and telephone numbers, so come prepared.

Your master application should organize your education information, work history, references and previous employer information, such as addresses and phone numbers. Include your social security number and any information you have about education or training. Having a completed master application will help you quickly and correctly fill out online job applications without having to search for information. Use it as your model when filling out applications for actual jobs. Most employers have their own forms and will not accept copies, so take your master and copy the necessary information.

Sections of an Application
The first section of an application usually asks for information such as your name, address and telephone number. Make sure this information is current.

The second section generally asks for information about education and training. List all of your schooling, even if you didn't graduate. Sometimes there will be a space to note special honors, awards or membership in professional associations. This is an important section of the application because it can be used to enhance your qualifications.

The most important part of the application is work experience, which usually begins with your most recent job. If you have held more than six jobs, you may wish to list only those most closely related to the job you are seeking. Others can be summarized, such as “held several food service jobs to pay expenses until I was able to find permanent employment.” Try to avoid exposing long gaps in your employment history because employers will wonder why the gaps exist. If you have little or no previous experience, list part-time, summer or volunteer jobs. It is important to describe your experience with words that are comparable to those the employer used to describe the job. Many applications ask why you left your previous job. Use statements that indicate that you chose to move forward, and look for positive ways to say why you left or are leaving a job. For example, you could say:

- “Looking for more responsibility”
- “Seeking advancement”
- “Seeking a more challenging position”
- “Seeking to expand skills”
- “Reduction in force”
- “Job change”

Choose a statement that most accurately describes your situation and be prepared to discuss your reason for leaving in more detail during an interview.

Application Tips

When filling out an application, know the title and qualifications of the position you are applying for. Specify the position you are applying for; do not write “any” or “will take anything” because employers do not want to take the time to figure out where you might fit. If you are interested in more than one position, fill out an application for each. Make a copy of the application just in case.

Target your application to the specific position you are applying for. Do your research and look for ways to target your skills and qualifications to match the specific job requirements.

Follow directions closely and read the entire application before you begin. Pay attention to sections that say, “Do not write below this line” or “For office use only.” The fine print may give instructions, such as “please print” or “put last name first.” Look for directives such as “apply in person” or “do not call.”

Make sure your application is neat with no errors in grammar, punctuation or spelling. Print neatly and use black ink if no color is specified. Don’t cross out writing, wrinkle the paper or fold the application. Respond to all questions, avoid abbreviations, do not leave any sections blank and write “N/A” if a section is not applicable. Do not mention health, personal, legal or financial problems and don’t forget to sign your name.

Some applications will ask for a desired salary or hourly wage. List the starting salary the employer has posted or do your research and find out what the starting wage is for the position and list a range.

Be honest on your job application. The information you provide will become a permanent part of your employment record when you are hired. False information can be grounds for dismissal. However, do not volunteer more information than necessary.

Make sure that you mail or turn in the application to the correct person or place. When picking up or dropping off an application, dress for an interview and greet those you meet politely. First impressions are often passed along to the hiring manager. Remember to take a copy of your application just in case. Take your master application and reference sheet with you to any employer contact. Verify the legitimacy of the company before you complete an application.

At jobs.utah.gov you can log in to my Job Search and create, update and store your master application or resume. You can also copy and use the master application on the following pages.
Build Your Resume

A resume is a marketing tool that lists and markets your best qualifications for a specific job. It is a memorable presentation of experience, skills, qualifications, knowledge and expertise and a demonstration of your ability to produce results. Your resume should show an employer what you have to offer and answer the question “What can you do for the company?”

The purpose of a resume is to get an interview. Your resume can then structure the interview, creating a point-by-point resume review or resume-based questions that ask you to “prove it.” Your resume will also remind the employer of your strong and weak points during the selection process.

Consider the type of position you are applying for. Employers spend an average of 10–30 seconds screening each resume they receive. A resume that is organized and focused will keep the employer’s interest.

SECTIONS OF A RESUME

Contact Information

Separate your contact information from the rest of the resume. You can do this with a line across the page. Include the following:

- Name (bold, 14–16 pt. font)
- Street address (city, state, zip)
- PO Box (city, state, zip)
- Home phone number (with area code)
- Cell phone number (with area code)
- Job-searching email address
- Webpage or LinkedIn account

Summary Statement

A summary statement is a clear, concise statement of your experience, tailored to the job you are seeking.

Emphasize what you will bring the employer rather than what you want. Include the following:

- Job title
- Important skills
- Industry
- Years of experience
- Degrees, certificates or licenses
- Language skills
- Management style
- Accomplishments

A summary statement is also called career summary, profile, career profile, career highlights, professional profile, professional summary or summary of qualifications.

Example:

Highly-motivated salesperson with more than eight years of experience initiating and closing transactions while providing exceptional customer service before, during and after the sale. Keen interest in fashion, retail sales, buying and management.

Skills

A skills list should not be a laundry list of all the skills you possess. Rather, you should carefully craft a list of skills that are important to the job. Do your research to find out what the job requirements are, and match keywords found in the job description.

Make sure this section is easy to read and include 9–15 relevant, targeted skills. List the most important skills first.

Resume Content Guidelines
• Tailor to meet employer’s expectations – generic resumes don’t work
• Prioritize most important information first
• Use action verbs
• Quantify results: #’s, %’s, $ amounts, positive results and projects completed
• Remove personal pronouns (you, I, my, we, they, etc.)
• Use acceptable terminology; avoid jargon and abbreviations.
• Include job titles, company names, cities, states and employment dates
• Do not include supervisor’s name, company address, salary or references
• Omit “References Available Upon Request”

Resume Formatting Guidelines
• One or two full pages in length
• Easy to read
• Phrases instead of sentences
• Lists instead of paragraphs
• 3/4” to 1” margins
• 11 – 12 point Calibri, Arial, Times New Roman font
• Bullets, underline, bold and italics used conservatively
• Maximize visual impact to reflect professionalism
• Print on quality resume paper
• No errors in grammar, spelling and punctuation
Experience and Employment History

In this section, make sure to include experience that is relevant. Don’t just tell the employer what you did, but tell how well you did it.

- Include your employment history, your accomplishments and descriptions of how you used your skills.
- List your history in reverse chronological order, going back as far as the last 10 years.
- Include full-time work, part-time work, volunteer work, internships and temporary positions.

Examples:
- Supervised a staff of 15–20 full- and part-time employees in the 6-week absence of the store manager.
- Achieved an average score of 93% on two federal safety inspections and 96% on five company operational audits.

Education and Training

In this section, include all types of education and training, listed in reverse chronological order. If you took courses relevant to the position you may include them. Do not list high school information unless you have not participated in any post-secondary education. List dates of attendance (if it was within the last 10 years), degrees, certificates or licenses, your major and your grade point average (if it was 3.5 or above). If you have not yet finished a program, include a projected graduation date. Place education after your work history unless you’ve graduated in the past few years. Ask yourself, “Which is stronger, my work history or educational background?” Include the following:

- Formal education
- Military training
- Specialized training
- Certifications
- On-the-job training
- Licenses
- In-service classes
- Workshops

Other Sections

All sections of your resume should contain information that is pertinent to the specific job you are applying for and show you in the best possible light. You may also include a section for any of the following:

- Licenses and certifications
- Affiliations
- Volunteer experience and community involvement
- Honors, awards and recognition
- Professional development
- Personal endorsements
To avoid some common resume mistakes, make sure that your resume is not:

- Too long: The preferred length of a resume is one page to two full pages.
- Disorganized: Information should not be scattered around the page or hard to follow.
- Poorly typed and printed: Content should not be hard to read or look unprofessional.
- Too sparse: A resume should give more than bare essentials like dates and job titles.
- Overwritten: A resume should not contain long paragraphs and full sentences.
- Unfocused: A resume needs to show what the candidate accomplished on the job.
- Irrelevant: Height, weight, sex, health and marital status are not necessary.
- Full of errors: Resumes should be carefully proofread before they are printed and mailed.
- Trying too hard: Fancy typesetting, photographs and exotic paper distract from the clarity of the presentation.
- Misdirected: Too many resumes arrive on employers’ desks unrequested. Include a cover letter.

Evaluate Your Resume

As the job seeker, put yourself in the shoes of an employer. How would he or she respond to your resume? Ask yourself the following questions in the categories of appearance, content and marketing, and then ask others for feedback.

Appearance
- Is the resume printed on high-quality bond paper?
- Is it a quality copy, free of stray marks and shaded or faded areas?
- Is there adequate white space?
- Is the font easy to read?
- Is the overall resume layout professional, attractive and reader friendly?
- Are bullets, font changes, caps, underline and italics used sparingly and appropriately?
- Is the resume clean and sharp?

Content
- Is the resume free of typos, misspellings, abbreviations, capitalization or punctuation errors?
- Are job descriptions written in phrases that begin with powerful action verbs?
- Is the resume free of all grammatical errors, including inconsistent verb tense?
- Does the resume writing reflect clear and concise vocabulary?
- Have redundancies been eliminated?
- Is the resume free of personal pronouns (I, you, my, we, they)?

Marketing
- Does the Summary Statement emphasize what you offer the employer rather than what you are looking for?
- Does the Skills List match the employer’s job requirements?
- Are your accomplishments quantified?
- Is the language and terminology appropriate?
- Has unnecessary information been eliminated?
- Is the resume an appropriate length or is the length justified based on unique information?
- Is the resume tailored to the job description, answering the question, “What can you do for the employer?”
- Is the most important information appear in the first quarter of the first page? Does it capture the employer’s interest?
Solutions for Potential Obstacles

If your history isn’t ideal to present on paper, here are tips for potential obstacles you might face in creating your resume. Be prepared to explain your situation if asked for details in an interview, but avoid long explanations. Always be honest.

- If you have an education but limited experience, list your education first. Detail classes that focus on specific skills and knowledge acquired. Showcase affiliations and community involvement.

- If you lack experience, apply for jobs where you meet the minimum required qualifications. Highlight community involvement, life skills, volunteer work and independent study.

- If you have unrelated experience, start with professional experience and education that relates to the job you are applying for. Put unrelated work history in a separate section called “Additional Experience” or “Complementary Experience” toward the end of your resume.

- If you have relevant religious or political experience, list it under “Community Experience” or “Ecumenical Experience.” Avoid naming specific institutions, religions or political parties.

- If you have experience that spotlights your age or gender, don’t list dates of education beyond the last ten years. List dates year-to-year or the total number of years worked. Say “more than 10 years experience” instead of “25 years experience.” You can also leave the dates off completely.

- If you have gaps in your work history, you can show the gap in your resume, but be prepared to discuss it in the interview. You can also de-emphasize dates by listing them from year-to-year or stating the actual amount of time worked (over 18 months).

- If you have too many jobs in a short time period, only include relevant jobs and list them from year to year. Consolidate two or three related jobs and accomplishments under one title. Be prepared to discuss employment in the interview.

It could be that there are other areas of your history that you do not want to include on your resume. It is best to handle this information in an interview, face-to-face, where you can explain what you learned from mistakes and that you are very interested in making a positive contribution to the organization. Be sure to be specific in outlining how you will accomplish this. Always be honest: if the truth is obtained from another source, you probably won’t be considered for the job.

THREE WAYS TO LAND A JOB

1. Think outside the box. Ask to volunteer or intern for a month. It’s a fantastic way to get in the door and show the employer your strengths.

2. Brace yourself for the tough questions. If you lack must-have skills — like a particular style of business writing or familiarity with relevant computer applications — see if your local community college or continuing education program offers courses that can boost your aptitude in those areas.

3. Accentuate the positive! Your energy comes through in your demeanor, your cover letter, your phone calls and in your interviews — and a confident, enthusiastic outlook will make employers want to hire you.

Solutions for Potential Obstacles on Your Resume

EDUCATION WITH LIMITED EXPERIENCE:
- List education first.
- Detail classes as “Course Work” that focus on specific skills and knowledge learned through hands-on experience.
- Showcase affiliations, organizational memberships and community involvement.

Education
A.S. Business Management
Uintah Basin Applied Technology College 2010
- Relevant Course Work: Beginning Accounting, Business English, Computer Literacy, Word Processing and Spreadsheet Applications.

LACK OF EXPERIENCE:
- Apply for jobs where you meet the minimum required qualifications.
- Highlight community involvement, life skills, volunteer work and independent study.

Complementary Experience
- Planned and organized activities, lessons and workshops for women’s service organization and supervised committee meetings.

EXPERIENCE THAT “DATES” YOU:
- Don’t list dates of education beyond the last 10 years.
- List dates year-to-year or the total number of years worked.
- Say something like “more than 10 years experience” instead of “25 years experience.”
- Leave the dates off completely.

Education
High School Diploma
Davis High School, Kaysville, Utah

Summary Statement
- Highly motivated individual with more than 3 years experience initiating and closing transactions while providing exceptional customer service. Keen interest in fashion, retail sales, buying and management.

LinkedIn Ten Most In-Demand Skills of 2019

Soft Skills –
- Creativity
- Persuasion
- Collaboration
- Adaptability
- Time Management

Hard Skills –
- Cloud Computing
- Artificial Intelligence
- Analytical Reasoning
- People Management
- UX Design
GAPS IN WORK HISTORY:
You can show the gap in your resume, just be prepared to address it in an interview. Or you can de-emphasize dates by listing them from year-to-year or by stating the actual amount of time worked (one year or 18 months).

Experience

Cashier
Smiths, Ogden, Utah 2009–2010
- Operate cash register to itemize and total customers’ purchases.
- Balance cash and checks in register with receipts.
  Consistently achieved 98% accuracy.

UNRELATED EXPERIENCE:
- Start with professional experience and education that relates to the job you are applying for.
- Put unrelated work history in a separate section called “Additional Experience” or “Prior Experience” toward the end of your resume.

Additional Experience

Fast Food Worker
McDonald’s, Vernal, Utah 2005–2006

RELIGIOUS OR POLITICAL EXPERIENCE:
- Put relevant experience in “Complimentary Experience” or “Community Involvement.”
- Avoid naming specific institutions, religions or political parties.

Community Involvement

Volunteer Sunday School Teacher 2009–Present
- Studied lesson material to learn curriculum and prepare lesson plan for 8 children ages 7–9. Worked with children’s parents to assist in teaching appropriate behavior.

TOO MANY JOBS IN A SHORT TIME:
- Only include relevant jobs and list from year-to-year.
- Consolidate two or three related jobs and accomplishments under one title.
- Be prepared to discuss employment in the interview.

Experience

Counter Attendant/Clerk Two Years
Blimpie/Subway/McDonald’s
- Took accurate customer orders, trained new employees, handled cash, placed orders and stocked supplies.
Create a Cover Letter

A cover letter tells a prospective employer “why” they should read your resume and gives an opportunity to introduce yourself, make a positive impression and highlight the skills and experience on your resume that show you are a great fit for the job.

An effective cover letter begins with doing research so you can tailor your qualifications to the employer’s needs. Find out the name of the person who will do the hiring and address your cover letter to that person. If not available, address the letter to Human Resource Director or Hiring Committee. In addition, find out as much information about the company as possible to show how you are good fit with the position and the company culture.

Cover Letter Format:

- One page in length
- ¾ to 1” margins
- 11” – 12” font using Calibri, Arial, Times New Roman
- Contact information same as resume
- Appropriate business letter writing protocol and formatting
- Print on quality resume paper
- No errors in grammar, punctuation and spelling
- Include a cover letter with your resume unless otherwise specified by the employer

Cover Letter Content:

The following content includes the three C’s of cover letter writing:

1. Carrot – Opening paragraph which is an introduction that is fresh, interesting and relevant to let the employer know why you want the job, to “hook” the employer into reading wanting to read more.

   Example of Appeal: Could your company benefit from a “work-smart” salesperson who built his client list from zero to 275 and transitioned the company’s focus on high-margin sales from 36% to 75%? (Question format)

   Example of Intrigue: Little did I know that leaving my native France to work for the summer as a banking intern in Colorado would lead to a career in international business.

   Example of an Interesting Fact: Labor statistics indicate that people change careers an average of eight times during their working life. I am pursuing one of those changes! As a career secretary, I wish to continue this work; however, my goal is to transition from government service and apply my skills in a more creative setting. Your advertising agency is among my top choices.

2. Corroboration – Middle paragraph(s) or the body of the cover letter that “packs a punch” and proves, demonstrates and substantiates your skills, experience and qualifications, tailored to 4 – 5 key elements in the job announcement. This section strengthens and supports your resume – not restates it and is centered on verifiable, documented accomplishments.

   Example (individual with sales and management experience in the building materials industry applying for a sales position with a roofing supplier):

   The skills and strengths I can bring to Weyerhaeuser are outlined on the enclosed resume. You’ll note that I’ve spent a decade in building materials sales, highlights of which match your key requirements:

   Requirements

   1. Ability to Launch new territories
      Qualification: Captured more than $8 million in sales volume while launching a new central California territory for JJB, Inc.

   2. Experience in building market share
      Qualification: Gained 35% share of the commercial building materials market through expansion of ready-mix business.

   3. Focus on bottom-line issues
      Qualification: Boosted profit margin to 6% above industry average through management of time, resources, and systems.

   4. Supervisory Experience
      Qualification: Hired, trained, and supervised an aggressive sales team who were well versed in competitive building materials.

3. Closing – Final paragraph of the cover letter that confidently summarizes your qualifications, shows how you add value to the company and suggests the next step to be taken—a call, a meeting, an interview. Finish your close with personality by using phrases such as “respectfully”, “enthusiastically”, “best regards”, “looking forward to meeting you” or “regards”.

   Example: Given my technical skills, familiarity with the product line, and understanding of your clients’ needs, I could step into the position and be of immediate assistance. I would welcome the opportunity to interview at your earliest convenience.

   Enthusiastically,

   Jane.

July 19, 2019

Ms. Sally Jones
Gateway Mortgage Group LLC
9278 South 300 West, Bldg. A
Sandy, Utah 84070

Dear Ms. Jones,

I am excited by the opportunity to be part of the Gateway team as I have been impressed with Gateway’s dynamic growth as a leader in the mortgage industry, offering innovative product options, flexibility and community-focused lending. Highlighted below are strengths I would bring to your Branch Manager position:

- Manage high-energy, rapidly growing office, working closely with production personnel and support staff: I was recognized at Utah Bank’s State Leadership Conference as recipient of the “Presidents Award” for staff, increasing new business by 33% and customer satisfaction rating to 98% from 87% in FY14.

- Train, lead and oversee execution of company processes and procedures: I manage recruitment, train and supervise 5-7 new loan officers monthly, in all aspects of mortgage lending, including quality customer service, policies and procedures and new mortgage product evaluation and implementation. Branch management frequently asks me to train new staff at other Utah Bank locations throughout the Salt Lake City, Provo and Ogden areas.

- Build strong sales relationships and contacts and manage loyal customer service base: One of my greatest strengths is creating strong relationships with clients—88% of new clients I have developed at Utah’s Bank provided referrals and/or purchased additional mortgage products. I believe in putting “people first” and tailoring services and products to meet their specific needs, as well as providing new services and products—“creating customers for life.”

- Oversee multimillion-dollar pipeline in an efficient, streamlined and timely manner: Currently, I service individual clients, businesses and community organizations with mortgage products and loan services averaging over $2.5 million annually. I received the “Top Performance” award for ranking first in rate of closed loans in 2013 and 2014.

- Two plus years mortgage and management experience, NMLS License and Bachelor’s degree preferred: 5 years successful experience managing mortgage loan processes from start to finish and supervising trainees with the loan process; NMLS License: #334455 in all 50 states and BS in Finance from Westminster College with 3.8 GPA.

It would be a privilege to contribute to Gateway’s future growth, and I look forward to meeting you in an interview to discuss adding value to your team as a Branch Manager.

Enthusiastically,

Paige Williams
Create a Cover Letter

The cover letter, or letter of application, tells prospective employers why they should read your resume. It can serve as a response to an ad by an employer, as a simple request for an interview or as a tool to inquire about job openings.

Do your research so that you can highlight your qualifications and tailor them to the employer’s needs. Always include a cover letter with your resume unless the employer specifies otherwise.

Find out the name of the person who will do the hiring and address your cover letter to that person. Letters addressed to the “Human Resource Department” or “To Whom it May Concern” may never reach the right person. Remember, the reader will consider this an example of your writing skills.

Your cover letter should:

• Be one page in length.
• Have one inch margins.
• Use a conservative font, like size 12 Times New Roman or Arial.
• Use appropriate business letter writing protocol and formatting.
• Be printed on the same type of paper as the resume with the same heading.
• Have perfect grammar and spelling and include your signature.

Format the cover letter as follows:

1. First paragraph: State your reason for writing. Name the specific position you are applying for and mention how you learned about the opening.

2. Second paragraph: Explain why you are interested in working for this employer and specify how you are perfect for this position. Do not repeat information on your resume. Include something special or unique that would benefit the employer. Include specific results and accomplishments. Demonstrate your knowledge of the company by complimenting the employer on positive results, accomplishments and information that you have learned from your research.

3. Third paragraph: Mention your resume is enclosed.
