REEMPLOYMENT SERVICES AND ELIGIBILITY ASSESSMENT (RESEA) PROGRAM

Unemployment Insurance programs provide temporary financial assistance to eligible workers during periods of unemployment. The Reemployment Services and Eligibility Assessment (RESEA) program is a statewide program intended to help those filing for UI who are most likely to exhaust UI benefits, by providing them with specific reemployment services. The Utah UI Division under the Department of Workforce Services (DWS) ensures that RESEA participants comply with UI eligibility requirements and that they are made aware of the variety of available reemployment services available to them and how to access those resources.

To assist the claimant in their job search, RESEA counselors tailor their evaluations to target their needs and to offer specific services tailored to the individual customer scenario. For example, some counselors may refer a claimant to their local employment center to inquire about funding to re-establish career licenses, bonding for individuals with a felon status, public transit passes for job interviews or beginning employment, or make referrals for specialized services available to veterans, just to name a few.

DID YOU KNOW...

On a weekly basis up to 500

claimants who have received their first benefit payment are selected for the program and connected to a counselor.

During the 2021 program year

7,523

UI claimants completed RESEA.

During the 2022 program year

11,239

claimants completed RESEA.

In 2022, the United States average duration of weekly UI claims filed before returning to the workforce was 15.41

as compared to the Utah average of 11.16

weeks and that can be attributed in part to our emphasis on providing UI claimants with specific reemployment services through RESEA.
